A correspondent at Havans says: The inauguration of the Administration of Gen. Sunnance has been the occasion of a rumarkable expression of national sentiment on the part of the people, sailed out by the Moorish campsign in Africa. The Morocco war is popular, and millions, from corporate bodies, institutions and the people, will be put at the disposition of the Crown, to sustain it. In the agentance of official influence to create or guide it; and I know of no other great question of millional moment that would draw forth such universal sympathy, unless it were a struggle to gain back the key of the Mediterrancen; and that may be among the objects covered by the mysterious veil of secrecy under which the expedition has been planned and fitted out. Gen, Cowcur, on his return to Medric, will be the bearer and the med um of offerings and communications from this part of the Spanish realm, which, in solid metallic "faith," will exceed anything known in the previous history of "ever faithful Cuba," term—and when they might avoid any tenti-monial of regard, if they desired to do so, they stem moved by one impulse in generous hom-age to the superior intelligence, excellence and worth which has been devoted to the social, po-litical and industrial progress of the Island. The "Adioe" to the General, on the day of his de-parture, will be a triumphal spectacle never be-the consider made with a significant control.

And the state of the control of the lers were raised to provide board for him for a few days.

Kain was tried and sentenced for life over two years ago. A writ of error was granted by the Supreme Court last soring, and accordingly the Supreme Court last spring, and accordingly he was brought to this city and placed in the jail to await a new trial. The fast that he had been driven to commit the act by the seduction of a daughter—the popular expression in the Sickles case—and in view that he had bren in the l'enitentiary nearly two years—these combined, doubtless weighed with the Jury in determining their verdiet. The general impression is that they did right, —Cincinnati Gasette.
